PRODUCTION BLUEPRINT

From character development to released episode.

CAST THE LEAD. LOCK THE STORY. RELEASE THE EPISODE.

PART 01 OF 19

CREATE CINEMATIC CONTENT.
BUILD YOUR DIGITAL WORLD.

How to run this blueprint

This is a real production pipeline – the same way a studio runs a show. Four zones. You move to the next zone only when the one before it is LOCKED. Your first episode: run the zones in order, top to bottom. Every episode after: your cast and your world are already locked, so you jump straight to STORY DEVELOPMENT and roll from there.

STAGE	ZONE	WHAT GETS LOCKED
 CASTING	Zone 1 – Casting + Character Development	Your lead. Face, body and references, locked in Modules 01 and 02.
 DEVELOPMENT	Zone 2 – Story Development	Tonight's episode. Story, hook and scene, locked in Modules 03 and 04.
 PRE-PRODUCTION	Zone 3 – Production Design	The world. Wardrobe, hair, location, camera and realism, locked in THE WORLD BUILDER.
 PRODUCTION + RELEASE	Zone 4 – Production + Release	The episode. Built in the vault, produced, released, studied.

Your tool kit — the apps you need

You need five tools: one that writes your prompts, one that makes photos, one that turns photos into video, one that controls the motion, and one that edits it all together.

THE JOB	THE TOOL	TIP
Write and store your prompts	ChatGPT (or Claude)	Save your master template there. Every episode is a small edit.
Make the face, photos and poses	ChatGPT image or Nano Banana Pro	Generate your MASTER here, plus extra angles and poses.
Turn it all into video	Seedance 2.0	It accepts multiple production references at once – attach them ALL.
Control the motion	Kling	When a shot needs to move a specific way – camera or character.
Edit, captions and sound	CapCut	Free and enough. Cut, caption, release.

THE PIPELINE — EVERY EPISODE MOVES LEFT TO RIGHT

Prompt · photos · Seedance 2.0 with ALL references · Kling for motion · CapCut.

The bigger your scenes get, the more production references you attach at once — one for identity, one for hair, one for the outfit, one for each location. The full multi-reference master template is in Module 11: The Prompt Vault, inside THE WORLD BUILDER.

- › Pick ONE tool per job, learn it once, and stay there — switching apps every week is how characters drift.
- › Free versions are fine to start. Upgrade when episodes are working.
- › Upload your MASTER photo into every tool, every time.
- › Keep the SAME tools for a whole series.

Tools change fast. If a new app comes out, the system still works — the prompts and the method do not change.
