MODULE 08

THE CONTINUITY SYSTEM

Make every new clip feel like the next second of the same world.

CREATE THE CHARACTER. DIRECT THE SCENE. BUILD THE WORLD.

Continuity is what creates a series

The same face is not enough. Viewers notice small breaks. The hair changes, a bottle moves, the sun jumps, the crowd repeats, or the camera jumps around. Continuity locks the whole world, not just the face.

- Identity and body
- Hair, hairline, facial hair and grooming
- Wardrobe, shoes, bag, jewelry, nails and makeup
- Camera device, lens, placement, height and framing
- Lighting, shadows, weather and time of day
- Environment, furniture, signage and skyline
- Background guests, staff and their positions
- Products, props, labels, liquid levels and object placement
- Dialogue, emotional state and physical action
- Sound, ambience and music continuity

CONTINUITY This scene begins immediately after Part [NUMBER]. Everything remains identical: - Same lead identity and body proportions - Same supporting cast - Same hairstyle, hair texture, hairline and grooming - Same outfit, shoes, bag, jewelry, nails and makeup - Same camera device, placement, height, framing and lens behavior - Same lighting, weather, shadows and time of day - Same environment, furniture, products, props and background guests - Same emotional state at the exact ending beat The clips must cut together seamlessly. Begin with the character already completing the final action from Part [NUMBER].

The handoff rule

Write the last moment of Part 1 and the first moment of Part 2 as one sentence. Example: Part 1 ends as she raises the glass. Part 2 opens with the glass already raised at the same height. The server is still standing beside the lounger.

Common continuity problems

PROBLEM	FIX
The face changes	Make Reference 1 the top priority again. Feed the MASTER into every generation.
The outfit changes	Under CONTINUITY, list every clothing item, color, fabric, shoe, bag, and accessory.
The camera teleports	Say what mount or person holds the camera. Keep it in the same place.
Props disappear	Say exactly where the object is, which way it faces, and who is touching it.
Background guests clone	Say how many guests there are, where they are, and what each one is naturally doing.
Time jumps	Lock the sun's position, weather, shadows, indoor lighting, and mood.
